Pre-order Guidelines –

When you order Tahiti, you have to wait until they ship, which can be weeks.

If you can't wait, don't order, as we can never tell when they're going to ship.

Note that clams are shipped separately than the fish as it's a different shipper, sometimes they may come in on the same day and can join them up for you, but not always.

On the fish, you put in an order for what you hope and wish you can get and then cross your fingers. There is no guaranty you'll get everything you order. Most shipments are limited to one Black Tang each per customer, unless they get a get a bunch of them, but you never know.
